

Jennifer Solis

As a transfer student from Crafton Hills Community College, Jennifer Solis graduated from the University of Redlands in 2021 with a Bachelor's degree in Psychology. Her significant engagement in community service during her undergrad years led her to complete an AmeriCorps CA Climate Action Corps Fellowship at the University of Redlands SURF Garden for over a year. Jennifer continued her academic journey by earning a Master's degree in School Counseling from the University of Redlands School of Education. At this time she also got a job in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, working to recruit students to the university that paved the way for her.

Jennifer now serves as the Assistant Director of First Year Admissions and Recruitment for the College of Arts and Sciences at the University of Redlands. With Spanish as her first language, she is deeply committed to ensuring equitable representation for all students and families in conversations about higher education. Her dedication to the university is reflected in her service as the Spanish Translator for URSA Communications, CULTURA representative on the University's Anti-Racism Committee (ARC), and her three-year term on the Alumni Association Board of Directors.

She is also now pursuing her Doctorate in Educational Justice at the University of Redlands and is excited to soon become a Triple Bulldog alumna.