THE STRING PROJECT

“The String Project” is part of a national consortium that provides group instruction for young string players. This project is supported through a generous grant from the Clarence E. Heller Foundation, with further financial backing from the National String Project Consortium.

Special thanks to Dr. Andrew Glendening, Dean - University of Redlands School of Music, and to Mrs. Krista Ordaz for their assistance and unconditional enthusiasm for these new string classes.

Our “String Project” staff wishes you and yours a most memorable holiday season! See you for classes beginning Tuesday, January 10th, 2011.
